Social services 'split up family' over child's rash

RACHAEL

@rach_mc94CN

A MOTHER has spoken out after a hospital visit ended with her partner being accused of abuse and the family torn apart.

Jasmine Yates, 20, and Kevin Gardiner, 31, from Haverhill, took one-year-old Amara to West Suffolk Hospital over concerns about a rash on her leg.

But prior to any tests being run, social services and the police arrived and accused Kevin of abuse, separating him from Jasmine, Amara, and her half-sister Genevieve, who was 10-days-old at the time.

Jasmine said: "It's been hard and emotionally draining for us all. I knew there was something wrong with my daughter and it just felt like no-one was listening."

She said: "It started so innocently. I got Amara out of bed to change her nappy and noticed a rash on her thigh."

"I took her to the doctor and he said we should go to the hospital and sent me out to the waiting room while he made the phone call."

According to Jasmine and Kevin, as soon as they arrived at the hospital on June 29, staff treated them with suspicion and suggested the mark on their daughter's leg was a burn.

They said it took 24 hours to run tests which bred more worry and frustration.

Jasmine said: "After the hospital said it was a burn they said we had to stay the night. I could stay with Amara but Kevin was told he had to go home and would have to come back in the morning with our 10-day-old daughter so she could be checked over."

The following day, social services and police became involved as well as a skin specialist who Jasmine claimed was adamant Amara's mark was not a rash or skin infection despite a swab being taken only seconds before social services arrived.

TOGETHER:
Kevin and Amara

Jasmine said Kevin was immediately separated from his family and was not allowed to say goodbye to her or the two children.

Rowan Procter, executive chief nurse at West Suffolk NHS Foundation Trust, said: "We are sorry to hear of the distress Ms Yates and her family are feeling, and would encourage Ms Yates to log any concerns formally with our patient experience team."

"The protection of children is of utmost importance to the trust, and we have rigorous processes in place to ensure potentially vulnerable children are safeguarded from harm. We apologise for any unnecessary stress that may have been caused."

The family were separated for more than a week. Kevin told the News he had to take time off work while the issue was being resolved because he found himself struggling emotionally.

Jasmine said: "It was so upsetting. We just wanted our family together and to enjoy time with Amara and our new baby."

After a week the hospital rang to confirm the mark on Amara's leg was a skin infection. The couple say they received no apology from the hospital. Kevin was then allowed to return to his family.

Kevin said: "I was just over the moon. I thought I might never see them again."

However, for reasons the family still do not know, social services remained involved until last week.

A spokesman for Suffolk County Council said: "We have a statutory duty to follow its child protection procedures when such concerns are raised. This is particularly important when we receive any referral from a specialist consultant within a local health authority."

"We discussed the situation with the family at the time who understood that we were following our statutory duties and we concluded our involvement when we received further information from the health authority following their initial diagnosis."

FAMILY

UNITED: Toni with her daughter, Scarlett

'The worst part is not being able to give my daughter a cuddle'

@rach_mc94CN

A YOUNG mum paralysed from the neck down in a terrifying New Year's Day crash is desperate to cuddle her daughter again.

Toni Easson was just 22 when she was paralysed from the neck down after her car spun out of control on black ice and crashed into a house in Shetland Road, Haverhill.

Toni now requires around the clock care, and is confined to a wheelchair, only able to move her head.

The 29-year-old said: "Don't get me wrong I love my family dearly, but I would probably have given up without my daughter."

"I feel like I've been through hell and back. It's been a journey. I wouldn't have been able to walk, well roll, without her."

Toni was always active before her accident in 2010, a regular gym goer who played for the local women's football team and was busy chasing after a four-year-old.

She says the accident turned her life upside down. Toni said: "I was only going at 30mph when it happened."

"I was so independent, lived on my own, had my daughter, went to the gym, played football and was always out and about. Then suddenly it was taken away."

"I need to get up and fight, push myself, otherwise there's no point."

YOUNGER DAYS: Toni and Scarlett

In the aftermath of the accident, Toni's heart stopped three times on the way to Addenbrooke's, she was placed in an induced coma, put on a ventilator and her family were told she would never be able to breathe on her own again after she had a complete C4 spinal break.

"I woke up three weeks after."

"Since then I've just tried to get on with it, be a mum for my daughter, Scarlett, she had only just turned four when this happened."

The crash had also caused damage to Toni's oesophagus meaning she was unable to talk as well as breathe.

"It was hard after the accident being told I would be on a ventilator for the rest of my life. I thought 'no, I'm not going to be. I'm going to get off that' and I did within two months."

Now, seven years later, Toni is determined to beat the odds again and regain the use of her arms enough to hug Scarlett, now 11.

Toni said: "My goal now is to get the use of my arms back. I can't cuddle my daughter, that's the worst part about all of this."

"My family had to help her learn how to read a book and tie her laces that for me were such important moments as a mum."

Toni is hoping that specialised physio treatment, which costs £82.50 per session, can help her regain enough strength in her arms that she can achieve her dream of hugging Scarlett.

She said: "If I had money I would go all the time but I'm not rich. I get some benefits and that's it. I've got bills to pay."

From the limited sessions Toni has managed she believes it's worth continuing if she can find funding.

Toni added: "I have had some good feedback from a few sessions. One of the physios said he could feel I was doing something, my body was trying to move. If I really concentrate I can sometimes push forward."

In the future, Toni hopes to be able to travel to America for an experimental treatment called epidural stimulation, where doctors place a chip in the spine to continuously stimulate with an electric current, but it costs $60,000.

You can donate to Toni's physiotherapy treatment at www.crowdfunder.co.uk/physiotherapy-fundraising-for-toni.

Slimming gives Anita a whole new lease of life

BEFORE AND AFTER: Anita Bryant

SLEDGING half her body weight has given this woman a whole new lease of life.

Anita Bryant, from Lidgate, near Newmarket, tipped the scales at a staggering 20st 13lbs back in January 2015 and says her weight had left her miserable and depressed.

In fact, Anita's weight problems were so bad even walking caused her excruciating pain.

She said: "I had no quality of life. Walking was painful and I felt depressed and utterly exhausted all the time."

Struggling to find the motivation to change, Anita finally started getting healthy when a local slimming group opened right on her doorstep.

She said: "I now had no excuses not to give it a go, it was on my doorstep."

Terrified of being judged for her weight, Anita says she felt ill the night of her first meeting.

Anita said: "I felt sick when the night came to join. I was scared, embarrassed and ashamed, but as I walked through the door and was met by a room full of friendly faces I knew I had come to the right place and that I wasn't going to be doing this by myself."

RACHAEL MCMENENY

@rach_mc94CN

Fast forward two-and-a-half years and Anita has turned her life around, losing an incredible 10 stone.

"I previously only existed, now I am living and, for the first time in my life, feel radiant."

She added: "My health has improved 100 per cent – my mobility has improved greatly and I can now cycle, do bounce classes and circuit training. My doctor is absolutely thrilled with how well I have done."

"I am a new woman and I am now able to join in with everything instead of just watching."

She has no special tips but instead puts her success down to the support of her fellow slimmers and her consultant Jo, who kept her motivated to exercise and eat healthily.

Following her huge success in dropping the pounds Anita was awarded Regional Woman for the Year, beating 58,000 fellow members.

Anita will be representing the East of England in the National Semi Final in Derbyshire on October 1, hopefully to go on to the National Final in Birmingham in November.

PAVEMENTS

Anger at state of 'dangerous' roads and paths

DEFECTS: Downs Crescent in Haverhill has safety concerns with regard to both the pavement and the road

DEEP crevices in the roads, massive potholes and dangerous pavements are all contributing to outrage at the condition of Haverhill streets.

More complaints about the roads and pavements came after a woman fell on the High Street in Haverhill and had to cancel a holiday after breaking a bone because of "dangerous" pavement conditions.

Graeme Gee, who lives in Downs Crescent, said: "The pavements are not safe, in places, for those aged, those with mobility scooters and walkers. The pavements are a mixture of level pavers and shattered concrete pieces.

"The road surfaces have many potholes, gaping cracks that run from side to side of the Crescent roadway."

Mr Gee continued: "Many long-term residents tell me they can't remember last time work was done on the road surfaces or pathways."

Mr Gee added: "Our neighbour had a fall and broke her collar bone. Her granddaughter has had a near serious fall from a scooter because of the poor surface."

In a letter to the News, another reader said many areas of the pavement were uneven or loose, and she has called on the council to fix the issues immediately.

Responding to the latest accusations of unsafe roads and pavements, a spokesman for Suffolk County Council said: "Roads and footways in Suffolk are inspected regularly and any defects found which meet our criteria for repair are made safe whilst permanent repairs are arranged and completed."

RACHAEL MCMENEMY

Another resident, Karen Fletcher, reported on Facebook: "I also fell just in front of St Mary's Church, chipped a bone in my ankle, reported to the council but got an email saying they had looked but didn't think it was dangerous. The slab was raised by a 1/4 inch."

Under the council's highways procedures it will only intervene and repair roads or pavements once they meet certain criteria.

A Suffolk County Council spokesman added: "We are aware of some defects in Downs Crescent and the High Street which do not currently meet our published criteria for urgent repairs.

"However, these are being considered for future resurfacing.

"While we carry out regular highways inspections, we also rely on reports from the public to put us in the best possible position to be able to respond quickly and effectively to highway issues.

"We welcome all feedback from residents and encourage people to report any highways related concerns to us via the council's highways reporting tool which can be found at www.suffolk.gov.uk/highways."

Hospice calls for volunteers

ST Nicholas Hospice Care is appealing for more volunteers from Haverhill and the surrounding areas.

The hospice is hoping to draft in extra support for its outreach hub in Camps Road. The charity needs people able to spare a few hours a week to help out in a variety of different roles.

Abi Morris, the hub's interim manager, said: "We have a great team of volunteers at the Haverhill Hub and we are on the lookout for even more people willing to give their time to ensure the smooth running of all aspects of the hub."

"Not only does volunteering for us give you the opportunity to use your existing skills to help a local charity supporting people across the town, it might also be a chance for you to try something different and pick up some new skills."

The charity, which supports people with long-term and life-threatening illnesses across the area, is keen to hear from those who would enjoy a dynamic role working flexibly across the hub's three areas.

Volunteers are needed to lend a hand on the centre's reception meeting and greeting visitors, as well as letting people know about the hospice's services, supporting the hub's Haven Café and using their retail know how in the charity's onsite shop.

Abi said: "We would love to hear from individuals with good people skills who want to be part of a great team and are looking for a new challenge."

"You don't need any formal qualifications to volunteer with the charity, and we will provide you with any training and support you need."

Volunteer receptionist roles include providing a warm and friendly welcome for visitors, answering and managing calls and taking messages.

For those lending a hand in the café, the role includes maintaining cleanliness of the tables and kitchen, serving customers and using the cash till.

In the shop, volunteers will help out with pricing goods, sorting and steaming donations so they are ready for sale as well as serving and assisting customers.

All the roles are also subject to a satisfactory DBS check.

To find out more, please pop into the centre for a chat with either Abi Morris or Anita Andreou, or call 01284 715573.

The monthly market returns

CLARE monthly market is back this weekend, with tasty foods and live music to entertain while you shop.

The market made its return after a 20-year-absence last month following calls from local residents and businesses for it to be reinstated. Together with Clare Town Council, St Edmundsbury Borough Council is supporting the community in bringing about the market's return.

This Saturday's market will feature at least 16 stalls run by local businesses and community groups, and offering everything from Spanish foods to traditional sweets, artisan bread, cheeses, coffees, organic fruit and vegetables, plus much more.

It takes place on Market Hill between 8.30am and 3.30pm, while there will also be live music between 11am and 1pm.

The market takes place on the third Saturday of each month. The next one will be on October 21. The market offers a free stall to any existing Clare businesses who want to try their hand at market trading. There is also a free stall for Clare-based community groups or charities to use for fundraising.

Anyone interested in trading on the market or who wants to enquire about the availability of either of these stalls, should contact Sharon Fairweather, market development officer on 01284 757093 or email sharon.fairweather@westsuffolk.gov.uk

Careful how you spend

DYNAMIC pricing, a process by which companies, such as Amazon, charge a different, tailored price to each customer for the same item, is causing price differentials of up to 260 per cent according to The Times.

This shows how vital it is for each of us to limit our recorded buying-trails by using cash for as many transactions as possible and to forgo the use of points-earning cards which record and gather information on our purchases.

Have prices been doubled?

WE have just been to the North West Development between the Huntingdon and Madingley Roads which is now known as the Eddington Centre.

The development itself is impressive.

The property there is geared towards housing academics from the university.

There is a percentage that will be sold to the general public. For example, two-bedroomed flats will be offered as will be four-bed, detached houses. The prices, we were told, will be £540k and £1.2 million respectively!

It is possible to purchase a two-bed flat in the nearby area, such as Giron, for £350k and a four-bedroomed detached house for around £650k.

The latter will have a garden and quite a large one at that.

This begs the question, where do the developers get these prices from? It looks as if they have looked at local market prices and doubled them!

It looks like the developers of this site are living in a different world, or are trying to create another one.

Incidentally Eddington, whose name the developers have used for the site, was a Philosopher of Science at Trinity College who did a lot of work on astrophysics in the early 20th century. He was knighted for his efforts. To call the site "Eddington" is, in my opinion, an insult. Even the main road through it is just called: "Eddington" It should be called the Sir Arthur Stanley Eddington Road and acknowledge the fact that he was knighted and give more credence to the university connection.

HEALTH

Hospital 'sorry' for operating on the wrong patient

RACHAEL
McMENEMY
@rach_mc94CN

A HOSPITAL has publicly apologised after a blunder which saw staff operate on the wrong patient.

The 'never event' – so named because they should never happen – occurred at the West Suffolk Hospital in Bury St Edmunds in March when the patient had the wrong procedure performed.

The patient suffered no ill effects but the hospital has not revealed what caused the mistake to happen now the investigation into the incident has finished.

Rowan Procter, chief nurse at West Suffolk NHS Foundation Trust, said: "Very disappointingly, a 'never event' occurred in March relating to an outpatient procedure."

"Although no harm was caused to the patient involved, we immediately undertook a robust and thorough investigation. This has now been completed and steps have been taken to ensure as far as possible that this doesn't happen again."

She added: "We take incidents like this very seriously, as we support the philosophy that they are wholly preventable. Patient safety remains our top priority and we work with staff to continually improve our processes and procedures."

"We have apologised to the patient involved, and are grateful for their co-operation and involvement throughout the investigation process."

The same report which revealed the 'never event' also detailed nine other serious incidents which included two unavoidable or unexpected deaths, one the result of a trip, slip or fall and the other in maternity; six were classed as threatening the ability/quality of health care services, including five norovirus outbreaks which closed wards at the hospital, and another incident where serious harm was caused to a patient.

'GREAT RESULT': Police found several stolen vehicles in a 'chop shop' near Haverhill

Stolen vehicles found in 'sting'

NINE stolen vehicles have been recovered in various states after a police sting.

Pictures from the scene show the vehicles in pieces, raising suspicions of an illegal car breaking operation, often known as a 'chop shop'.

The engine from one vehicle can be seen dangling from a winch and another car appears to have been cut apart.

The garage where the dismantled vehicles were found is in New England, between Haverhill and Clare.

Writing on Facebook Braintree and Uttlesford division of Essex Police said: On Thursday evening, officers from the Community Policing Team found nine stolen vehicles in a garage in #NewEngland. A long shift by all those involved but a great result."

No arrests have been made. Members of the public reported seeing a lot of police activity in the area at the time.

Acknowledgements

LITHGO John
'J'

Sheila and the family of the late John wish to thank all those who sent such kind messages of sympathy and support following their recent sad bereavement.

Thanks also to those who attended John's funeral service and sent such kind donations to Cancer Research UK in his memory.

A special thank you to Nicki Hickford for her personal care and attention to all the funeral arrangements and to Jeff Hall (Funeral Director) and staff at Peasgood & Skeates for carrying out such a professional, personal and caring service on the day, also to Adrian Graves for conducting a comforting service in John's memory and to the staff in Ward C4 at Addenbrooke's Hospital for all the wonderful care taken of John during his stay with them.

Finally, a personal thank you to George and Linda of The Red Lion, Gt. Watlington for their wonderful hospitality and provision of refreshments following the service.

Please accept this as an expression of their most sincere gratitude.

First store at new retail park opens

RACHAEL MCMENENY

@rach_mc94CN

PETS at Home has become the first store to open at the new Haverhill Retail Park.

The new store is a pet paradise, full of treats, toys and for pampered pooches there's even a groom room.

Within the store people will also find an adoption centre and a vet.

Suzie Copleston, store manager, said: "What a fantastic start! Our opening weekend went even better than we had hoped and it was great to welcome the Mayor of Haverhill and show him the new amenities that we have on offer at the store."

"Our new store features thousands of dedicated pet products for not only dogs and cats but small animals, fish and local wildlife too. We have also created 13 jobs for the community across a range of full time and part time positions."

The store was opened by Haverhill Mayor David Roach and his wife Susan who then got their very own guided tour.

The Mayor of Haverhill, Councillor David Roach, said: "We are pleased to welcome a new business to the local area, which will contribute to the new Haverhill retail park and bring more shopping options and jobs to the town."

A Closer Look at ...

No compromise on quality with JMP

Earlier this year, Haverhill's JMP Furniture Solutions opened their newly refurbished showroom, which has helped the business showcase more fine furniture than ever before.

JMP's new showroom is designed to show off more of its fitted and bespoke bedroom designs, with items including fantastic sliding wardrobes, all manufactured by the close-knit team on site.

This new-look showroom will give customers more inspiration for their perfect fitted bedroom, with the company's expertise ensuring you can have fitted bedroom furniture made exactly how you want it.

ADVERTISING FEATURE

JMP also offer kitchen refurbishments, which can help make the room more practical for use, as well as infinitely more stylish. You don't have to compromise on quality with JMP.

The ten-strong team take on a variety of tasks for a wide array of different clients. From kitting out bedrooms and home offices, to manufacturing and supplying contract furniture to clients including hotels and shop fitters, there is no task too big for the team to take on.

JMP Furniture Solutions is proud to manufacture and supply quality products for every room of the house, including dining tables and living room furniture, as well as its excellently crafted fitted bedrooms.

If you're looking for the personal touch of a company who help you from the start of your project, beginning with the design concept to the final stage of installing your furniture, you'll find it at JMP Furniture Solutions.

You can find the newly refurbished showroom at Units 5 and 6, Fennfield Industrial Estate, Homefield Road, CB9 8QU. JMP Furniture Solutions are open from 8am-4.30pm on weekdays and 9am-1pm on Saturday.

Hundreds of women put their best foot forward for hospice

WOMEN wearing flashing bunny ears put their best feet forward when they stepped out in their droves to raise hundreds of thousands of pounds for a local hospice.

Some 2,188 women pulled on their comfiest trainers and paced the pavements of Bury St Edmunds on Saturday, as part of St Nicholas Hospice Care's 2017 Girls Night Out.

The pyjama-clad women gathered on Angel Hill, as they prepared to trek either six or 11.2 miles round the town and, although funds are still be counted, it is estimated the moonlight walk, which is now in its ninth year, has raised £250,000.

Jenny Smith, hospice events manager, said: "Thank you to everyone who has taken part in Girls Night Out and made it such a huge success."

"When Girls Night Out first started, we had around 350 walkers, now we have 350 marshals and volunteers and more than 2,000 women taking part, who between them will have walked more than 10,000 miles."

"It is always emotional to see the walkers set off from Angel Hill together and to see such wonderful community spirit across the town.

PROUD TO TAKE PART: The Charlie's Angels team, from Haverhill, walking in memory of Charlie Allen

"Thank you also to everyone who supported the walkers by sponsoring them or coming out of their homes to cheer them on."

"The money raised is incredibly important to us because it helps us to continue caring for people and families facing long-term and life-threatening illnesses across west

WONDERFUL SIGHT: The Girls' Night Out crowd

Suffolk and Thetford.

"This year marked our ninth year and I can't wait to see everyone again next year when Girls Night Out celebrates its 10th birthday."

The Charlie's Angels team, a group of four family members from Haverhill also returned to take part in the walk for the third time.

Amanda Williams, Sue Elliott and Sophie and Laura Allen were all walking the 11.2 mile route in memory of Charlie Allen.

Amanda said: "We are all excited to be here."

"For us it is an extremely special event and one that as a family we are proud to be able to do in memory of our grandad and dad."

"For us it is not just about this night, taking part in the walk helps keep us together as a family all year as all make sure we train together throughout the year which allows us time together to think about and remember our grandad and dad."

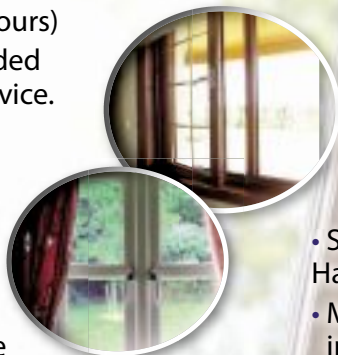

"It is fantastic to be taking part again, seeing all of the flashing lights is amazing."

Next year's Girls Night Out will take place on Saturday, September 8.

'No plans to take control of fire services' says PCC

THE Police and Crime Commissioner Tim Passmore has announced that he will not be pursuing plans to take control of Suffolk Fire and Rescue Service.

Earlier this year Mr Passmore commissioned an independent review to assist his decision making. This review concluded there was insufficient evidence to suggest a governance change at this point would be clearly in the interests of economy, efficiency, and effectiveness; or public safety.

Mr Passmore said: "From the out-set I said I would only consider taking over the governance of Suffolk's fire service if it provided clear benefit to the county's tax payers.

"Following an extensive options appraisal process, it is clear that the benefit from a change of governance is unlikely to be significant, so I feel it is further not to take this any further for the foreseeable future.

SAMAR MAGUIRE
@CambridgeNewsUK

"I am very satisfied that PA consulting, who carried out the review, has considered all the risks and benefits of this potential change of governance. Their thorough report highlights some benefits but not enough to make a change in governance worthwhile."

There was provision for three new governance options for fire. The representation model and single employer options were not considered by the consultants to deliver sufficient benefits or be viable.

This left two viable options – no change, or the governance model, in which a new Fire and Rescue Service entity would be created and governed by the PCC.

Mr Passmore added: "Suffolk Constabulary and Suffolk Fire and Rescue Service (SFRS) are both relatively low cost services and while I understand the medium-term financial position of SFRS is protected, the longer-term position is less clear.

"It would be foolhardy for me to make such a major change to the governance of the fire service while this uncertainty exists.

"At this point, I think my main focus needs to be on the challenges the constabulary faces and making sure we deliver the best possible policing for Suffolk's tax payers."

The Police and Crime Commissioner will continue to work closely with Suffolk County Council and SFRS to identify further collaboration opportunities.

The two services share eight joint facilities in Suffolk, with stations operating in Saxmundham, Felixstowe, Woodbridge, Ixworth, Elmswell, Debenham, Framlingham and Clare. Work has started on the joint station in Newmarket and there are plans for further joint stations in Bectles, Leiston and Stowmarket along with some further sharing opportunities of functions in Ipswich.

"Despite my decision not to change the governance arrangements at this stage this does not mean we will not continue to look at every opportunity for deeper joint working and collaboration between our two organisations to improve service delivery and obtain better value for money for taxpayers in Suffolk," Mr Passmore said.

folks," Mr Passmore said.

"The next step for my team is to meet with the Chief Constable, the cabinet member for public protection, Cllr Matthew Hicks and his Chief Fire Officer and agree how we will take the recommendations of this report forward together."

Cllr Matthew Hicks, Suffolk County Council cabinet member for environment and public protection, said, "In Suffolk we have really been pushing ahead with blue light collaboration between our fire and rescue service and the police, working together and with the sharing of fire and police stations. In fact we're held up nationally for it.

"Suffolk County Council and the fire and rescue service have been heavily involved in this process and feel strongly that regardless of governance arrangements, we will continue to work closely and share resources so that we can continue to keep people in Suffolk safe."

ROADS

Oh dear, what a crash

ONE driver had a lucky escape after his van collided with a deer on the A1307.

The front of the white van was completely smashed in the collision, but amazingly both the driver and the deer escaped unhurt.

One photo shows the vehicle's windscreen shattered in several places and the driver-side panels completely buckled from the impact.

The deer ran off straight away looking none the worse for wear, according to Bedfordshire, Cambridgeshire and Hertfordshire (BCH) Road Policing unit.

The accident happened at the Horseheath junction, Cambridgeshire last Thursday evening.

The offer also includes an Austravel Flavours of Fiji Cookery School and international flights from Manchester with Cathay Pacific. Based on travel in February 2018.

DAYS were when booking a cruise meant the Med for most Brits, calling in on our stately Continental neighbours.

If you could afford to splash out, then a Caribbean cruise - the mainstay of TV game show prizes - was something to aspire to.

Most ships offered cabaret entertainment, tea dances and napkin folding.

All that has changed, thank goodness. Although tradition is still valued, there's a whole world of adventure out there, and it begins with booking that cruise.

On the eve of Europe's largest cruise show, here are 10 experiences offered by cruise lines.

1 TAKE THE INCA TRAIL

DISCOVER the ancient Inca Empire and the Peruvian rainforest in five-star luxury. You can explore Lima's colonial landmarks and unravel the secrets of the Sacred Valley of the Incas before heading to the magnificent ruins of Machu Picchu.

Embark on a journey to one of the world's most uninhabited regions, on the mighty Amazon, onboard Delfin III, one of the world's most luxurious small ships. Take in scenes of Amazonian river local life from the ship and enjoy views of the largest rainforest on Earth.

Haverhill - a hotspot for first time buyers?Ryan Bourgaise, Associate, Cheffins comments:

In the past 18 months, at least a third of our property sales have been to first time buyers. Drawn in by more affordable prices, high quality new build homes and its proximity to Cambridge, first time buyers are continuing to come to Haverhill in their droves and now make up a significant percentage of households in the town. According to the latest Halifax First Time Buyer Review, the average price paid by a first time buyer was £207,693 in June. Bearing in mind in Haverhill around £200,000 could buy a smart two bedroom property with garage or smaller three bedroom house, the town now presents a viable option in comparison to other more expensive parts of the region.

The majority these purchasers are from the local area, however we are also seeing an increase in first time buyers from further afield who have located to the area for work. Cambridge continues to employ a raft of young professionals, many of whom can't afford to live in the city and realise that a short drive out of town to Haverhill can allow for a larger property than other locations closer to the city.

Lifestyle has also helped to draw younger buyers to Haverhill. Our town has a fantastically friendly community with a series of sports and social clubs. There is also a growing bar and restaurant scene with the opening of the likes of Nine Jars in recent months along with the established chain restaurant, Prezzo. The leisure centre provides a state of the art gym and cinema complex and the pretty surrounding countryside is perfect for those looking to make the most of the outdoors and the nearby village pubs.

As a series of new developments continue to spring up and around the town, we forecast that a large portion of our market will continue to be made up of first time buyers over the following months. Anyone looking to purchase their first home should give us a call at Cheffins and we would be more than happy to help advise how to get onto the property ladder.

Centre to host music of legends

CAROLE King is one of the most successful songwriters not just of her generation, but ever. No, exaggeration! Today, The Australian singer Nicki Dee performs songs from Carole's album Tapestry, which topped the US album for more than six years. She also sings songs that you definitely know but maybe didn't know that Carole had written, songs like: Something Tells Me I'm Into Something Good, The Locomotion and (You Make Me Feel Like) A Natural Woman. Catch Carole King's Tapestry in Concert at 7.30pm.

If you are an opera fancier then our live broadcast of The Royal Opera's The Magic Flute should make you happy. This spell-binding production of Mozart's work tells the story of Prince Tamino who is instructed to rescue the Queen's daughter Pamina and instead of your standard hero type weaponry is given, by the Queen's servants, a magic flute to ward off evil. All is not black and white in the world of Tamino and Pamina though and the twisty plot turns keep loves young dream apart for too long. See it on Wednesday at 7.15pm

Sixties group are still going strong, so strong in fact, we have sold out! Make sure you are on our mailing list so you don't miss out on all the good stuff. Talking of which, we have Raymond Froggatt back with us on Saturday, September 23. The inimitable 'Froggy' entertains with that special brand of music that has earned him legions of loyal fans.

Sunday, September 24 sees the return of the ever-popular Haverhill Silver Band to the arts centre, and this time they welcome special guest Tom Hutchinson in a one-off collaboration. Tom has previously performed with Black Dyke (one of the oldest and best-known brass bands in the world) and has also been a bit of star on the European and British Open Championships. The show starts at 7.30pm.

To celebrate the fact that we are bursting with the seams with great guitar music this autumn, we are introducing a guitar season ticket called The Fretboard Five. For an absolute steal of only £40 you can see: Thomas Leeb; State of the Union with Boo Hewerdine and Brooks Williams; Clive Carroll; Guy Davis and Fabrizio Poggi and The Oxley-Meier Guitar Project. Call the Box Office on 01440 714140 or go to www.haverhillartscentre.co.uk for more information.

At the flicks this week come and see Maudie (12A) the biopic of the Canadian artist Maud Lewis. Sally Hawkins stars as the artist who is disabled with chronic arthritis and Ethan Hawke her husband. After being digitally re-mastered to celebrate the 25 years since its original release, you now have the opportunity to watch the Merchant Ivory film Howard's End on the big screen. The cast-list is a who's who of British Talent (Anthony Hopkins, Vanessa Redgrave, Helena Bonham-Carter and Emma Thompson) and as EM Forster's novel is the source material, the story follows his recurring themes of repressed passions and class tensions. It definitely deserves the 'classic' tag and you can see it here on Thursday, September 21 at 7.30pm.

Don't miss other up and coming shows such as The All That Jazz Club with Georgia Mancio (September 30), Griff Rhys-Jones: Where Was I? (October 12) a work-in-progress show, and Martin Turner ex Wishbone Ash (October 28).

● Thursday, September 14, 7.30pm – Carole King's Tapestry in Concert (cabaret seating)

● Tuesday, September 19, 7.30pm – Maudie (12A)

● Wednesday, September 20, 7.15pm – The Royal Opera House: The Magic Flute

● Thursday, September 21, 7.30pm – Howard's End

ROAD TEST

FEW cars turn heads like the Toyota C-HR. Its dramatic styling hints at something special – and it is, mostly.

The latest Toyota offering in the compact SUV sector, where the company was solely represented with the RAV4, could not be more different from its stablemate.

There is a good 11-model line-up in the C-HR (Coupe High Rider) range, utilising three trim levels, front or all-wheel drive and 1.2 petrol or 1.8 petrol and electric motor.

We previously drove the 120hp 1.8 hybrid C-HR which was slower but more economical thanks to its advanced powertrain, so we opted for the companion 1.2 turbo-petrol for this evaluation, although they both used continuously variable transmission and had front wheel drive only.

The 1.2 litre petrol engine is typical of today's units and has been optimised for performance with parsimonious petrol consumption, and we returned a regular figure over 40mpg without any particular effort.

It pulled well for such a small engine in a car weighting about 1.4 tonnes but the combination of the continuously variable transmission and the limited capacity available meant it had to work hard if there were a couple of passengers and this was reflected in the economy overall.

The steering did not have a sharp feel to its action but it was always smooth, needed little effort and displayed a good turning circle and no vibration at speed.

Access is good to the front, slightly more restricted into the back because of the roofline, but once seated the comfort is adequate for four so long as they are not too long-legged in the back.

Heating and ventilation is good throughout and the oddments room is a bit challenging but reasonable, which is what might also be written of the boot space, which seems a bit too small in this family runabout model.

For a family car it's well equipped to keep occupants safe and reduce likely accidents from parking incidents or nose to tail touches in queues.

You have quite good vision to front and sides, big wipers and very good headlights but you do need to be careful reversing as the high tail and wide rear pillars can hide pedestrians and obstacles and you cannot rely on any technology to be entirely foolproof.

On the open road it performs well, responding to accelerator, brakes and steering with precision and power so you're never left wondering if something will work.

Perhaps the 1.2 T automatic C-HR will not be the best seller in the series, but it's a good performer on the road and possibly what a lot of drivers want. The looks you don't have to pay more for.

KIA WE GO: The "perfect car" to travel around a country like New Zealand

IT'S not 'all black' in New Zealand, if you'll pardon the pun, as I discovered during a three-week visit where I clocked up a few thousand miles in a pure white Kia Sportage, writes Maxine Ashford.

If ever any proof was needed that the Korean car maker has come on in leaps and bounds over recent years, then the success story in the Land of the Long White Cloud, as New Zealand is affectionately known, is the ultimate proof.

In a country where the pick-up truck is the go-to vehicle for its hard-working and practical approach to life along with go-anywhere capabilities, it's the Kia Sportage that is gaining all the attention and grabbing the headlines among the car-driving populous.

And it has now reached the heady heights of being New Zealand's best-selling passenger car.

That's a status the company is very proud of, as Todd McDonald, general manager, Kia Motors New Zealand, explained: "The Kia Sportage has won a special place in the hearts of New Zealand motorists, thanks to the combination of stylish good looks, performance, economy, excellent passenger space and comfort – it's an incredibly competitive vehicle."

"To date, it is the best-selling SUV of any brand in New Zealand for the first six months of 2017. Just to put that into perspective, the top-selling vehicles in New Zealand are the Ford Ranger and Toyota Hilux pick-ups, which are usually purchased as double cab models. Although they can carry five passengers, they are classed as light commercial vehicles, so that makes the Sportage the most popular passenger car in New Zealand, as well as the most popular SUV."

During my visit, I was driving the Sportage EX 2.4 model with petrol engine and all-wheel-drive – an engine we don't get in the UK where the Sportage comes either with a 1.6-litre petrol or 1.7 and 2.0-litre diesels.

Although diesel is much cheaper at the pumps than petrol in New Zealand, there is an additional charge to drivers.

Petrol prices range from NZ$1.97 per litre to NZ$2.06 for premium fuel, which equates to about £1.12 to £1.17, depending on the rate of exchange.

Diesel is priced much lower at NZ$1.29, which would be just 73p per litre, but then there is a Road User Charge (RUC) that must be purchased in advance.

This is based on the number of kilometres a vehicle travels. RUC is levied on a graduated scale, based on the weight of the vehicle, so light passenger vehicles pay a small amount per kilometre and large 50-tonne trucks pay a large sum.

Heavier vehicles pay more because they are deemed to cause more damage to roads.

However, even though diesel passenger vehicles pay the least, it works out similar to the cost of petrol for most small cars and SUVs, when the RUC and fuel costs are added together.

Anyway, there was no need for me to be concerned about mileage, as I was in a petrol-driven vehicle, and the first thing I noticed about the car was the number plate. How cool is it to drive a Sportage around with a registration plate that reads KIA121.

Our car was priced at NZ$41,990 (plus on-road costs) which equates to £23,870 and it was certainly a head-turner, thanks to its distinctive tiger-nose grille, sweeping light clusters with LED daytime running lights, a sculpted bonnet, low roofline, chiselled rear end and smart 18in alloys. Move inside the five-door model and the interior is equally impressive, with an ultra-modern, clutter-free cabin and oodles of technology to explore.

There are lots of soft-touch surfaces, and the dashboard is horizontal in its layout.

The upper section houses the 7in colour touchscreen and the lower part, referred to as the control area, is where all controls for the sound system and climate control are located. Other features on the test car included leather upholstery, heated seats, dual-zone air conditioning, a six-speaker sound system, reversing camera and parking sensors.

Obviously, storage space was of paramount importance, as we were constantly on the move, and I can happily report back that the Sportage has a boot big enough to swallow two huge suitcases, a couple of daypacks, coats and the usual supplies of snacks and refreshments – and that's before you explore the numerous storage options scattered throughout the cabin, including a good-sized glovebox, door pockets and practical cup holders.

As our visit coincided with the beginning of winter, it was reassuring to know we had all-wheel-drive capabilities, even though the worst side of Mother Nature we saw was a few minutes of sleet and some unfrozen overnight frost at the side of the road.

That said, it did rain lots, and there was a fair amount of surface water at times, but nothing that troubled the Sportage.

When it comes to the Sportage's performance, it was difficult to find fault. The acceleration was smooth through the six-speed automatic gearbox, the road-holding was assured, the steering precise and there was no sign of body roll into corners.

The cabin was well-insulated against engine, road and wind noise, and the highly-efficient suspension system ironed out any bumpy surfaces, which to be fair, were few and far between.

The fuel gauge did drop quite quickly if I were to be particularly picky, and the car has an official mpg of 33.2mpg with carbon emissions of 199g/km, but that was my only minor gripe.

And as one would expect, the Kia Sportage is packed with safety specifications and scored highly in New Zealand's equivalent to Euro NCAP testing, called ANCAP.

The Sportage is a perfect car to travel round a country like New Zealand, and we felt completely lost when we handed it back and had to choose between public transport and walking for our last couple of days.

HAVERHILL SPORT

Premier sides suffer midweek thrashings

HAVERHILL's two Thurlow Nunn League sides had midweek matches to forget – both losing 6-0.

Borough lost at home to Newmarket Town on Wednesday night, while Rovers suffered defeat at high-flying Coggeshall the previous evening.

Borough were 1-0 down at half time but conceded five unanswered second-half goals to the Jockeys, who moved into third in the Premier Division table.

A stronger, faster Coggeshall side were a different class in Tuesday's match against Rovers.

The away side's tough night turned sour with just four minutes gone as their hosts edged ahead, Danny Scott cutting the ball back from the by-line just to the right of goal for Jack Curtis to hit a first-time finish in a carbon copy of Whitton's second goal against Rovers three days earlier.

The score was almost level in the 21st minute after a mix-up in the home defence, Owen Longley's controlled side-foot volley – with goalkeeper Matt Walkey out of position – bouncing up on to the inside of a post before being cleared.

Things were worsened for Haverhill as midfielder Aaron Forshaw was forced to leave the game with 28 minutes gone, and faces a spell on the sidelines, after an ankle injury caused when his leg was caught between the challenge of Jamie Shaw and the ground.

Two minutes before the break Coggeshall doubled their advantage, Nnamdi Nwachuku showing he was of a different class with a turn through his own legs 15 yards out that was like something from a Match of the Day highlights reel. His low shot, with the outside of his boot, forced a fingertip save from goalkeeper Charlie Turner, who did well to get down to the ball, but it spun in off the foot of his left post.

Six minutes into the second half the score was 3-0, Scott riding three tackles before tucking the ball into the far bottom corner. Nwachuku netted his second of the evening to make it 4-0 with 20 minutes to go.

Captain Luke Wilson got in on the scoring act five minutes later when he met a corner to head back into the far bottom corner.

Nwachuku completed his hat-trick on 90 minutes from the penalty spot to wrap up the scoring.

The hammering completed a miserable few days for Rovers, who exited the FA Vase following a 3-1 defeat by Whitton United, who took a 2-0 lead into half time, before Ben Bradley pulled a goal back late in the second half.

With everyone, including keeper Charlie Turner, pushed forward for an equaliser, Rovers were caught on the counter-attack as Whitton scored a third.

Borough also went out, 1-0 at Enfield 1893, as a defensive error in the second minute allowed the hosts to score what proved the winner. The margin of defeat would have been greater had Ash Botten not cleared off the goal-line.

Phillips ton carries side to victory

ANTHONY Phillips hit a fantastic unbeaten century as Haverhill gave their chances of avoiding relegation from the Marshall Hatchick Two Counties Championship, Division One a welcome boost with a six-wicket win over Maldon.

Visitors Maldon won the toss and batted first, scoring 221 for 7 having been 170 for 2 at one stage.

Phillips opened the batting for Haverhill and enjoyed an important 88-run partnership with Chris Palmer (26).

He went on to remain unbeaten on 126 as Haverhill reached 222 with six wickets and two overs to spare.

Captain Adam Dellar said: "This was a great batting performance from the boys and Ant Phillips produced a stunning knock to get us over the line."

"It was an important win and one that gives us a lot of confidence going into next week's must-win game."

Callum Brunning's performance on his return from injury was the one bright spot in Haverhill II's heavy defeat by Long Melford in Division Three of the Two Counties League.

He took 5 for 68 as the hosts posted 174. In reply, Haverhill were bundled out for a mere 64.

Rain forced Haverhill III's match away to Woolpit IV to be abandoned – but not before the visitors' Kevin Austin had claimed 5 for 36 and Tyler Bell 4 for 19.

Rain and contact wreck Paffett's Nurburgring races

GARY Paffett experienced mixed fortunes at the latest round of DTM action at the Nurburgring.

Haverhill driver Paffett finished 10th in race one but had to settle for 14th in the second race.

Despite coming away with a point from the first race, Paffett was disappointed not to have finished higher as a change to dry tyres on his

Motorsport

Mercedes-AMG C63 turned out to be a bad decision as another spell of rain ruined his race.

Mercedes took a clean sweep of the podium, with Lucas Auer, Paul di Resta and Robert Wickens finishing first, second and third respectively. "Congratulations to all of my team-mates," said Paffett. "They all drove a brilliant race. Mine was none too good, unfortunately. We had just really bad luck. We pitted early for slicks, which was the right call, but then it rained again, destroying my race. I'm really disappointed."

In the second race Paffett suffered more bad luck as contact with the BMWs of Augusto Farfus, Tom Blomqvist and Maxime Martin affected his race.

He said: "I made a really good start and gained a few places. Augusto then pushed me off in turn three so I lost some positions."

"After the pit stop Tom Blomqvist drove into my car and somehow damaged the right rear wheel so it handled pretty badly subsequently."
